

February 18, 2015

Grayson

I received your emails tonight. They were dated 2/13. Go figure. Things do not always happen quickly in here.

Thank you, Grayson, for the money. The only confirmation I can give you is that I received the letter. Until I go to commissary I will have no way of checking. That will be on 2/25. I will write you back then and tell you. However, I am certain it is in there if you put it in. Confirmation last time was not possible because I was on lock down until almost February.

Match.com is pretty annoying. I used it a few times. Looks do matter. Never before has a photograph meant so much. Even then, it is not a guarantee. Like with you, you never know the whole package. I can only imagine the volume of people on it today. Ten years ago it was like getting a drink of water from a fire hydrant; today, it is probably so saturated as to make it fruitless.

Mom and Dad are doing well. Dad is about to be done at The News.

That is sad ~~too~~ for so many reasons. How rare it is that he went

To work for one company over 40 years ago.
That does not happen with our generations.

I do hope I can get out soon to help care for them. They have sunk so much money into me that I fear their retirements are very lean.

Mom's plans for Hudson's birthday are precious. I'll bet those capes are going to be awesome. What a creative concept. You would have loved those at that age. You were very much into superheroes like Batman, Spiderman and Superman. They said you might be flying out to DC for the party. That is awesome.

I wish I could explain to you some of the stuff I have read in here, but a letter is not the forum. One day I will be able to sit down with you and lay it all out. It will blow you away.

OK, Grayson, I am going to get going. Thanks, again, for the money. I will let you know, when I go to commissary, if I got it. Pretty sure I did, though.

Take care. ~~Best~~

I love you.

Love,

Damon