Grayson,

I got your letter. Thank you for writing me back. Thank you, also, for telling me about

I wrote him back, too. That letter was long overdue on my part.

I am sending you a picture we took at visitation this weekend. I want you to put it on your FACEBOOK page if you would like. My hair actually cooperated with me that day (what little I have left up front).

Mom will probably freak out, but that is what she does, bless her heart. I think even someone who bears a grudge against me personally would have trouble not seeing the very personal, human side of the parents who love their son enough to go visit him in prison — after 6 years! We look like <sup>what</sup> we are: a happy, loving family.

Anyway, I think you have done a great job with your initial PR for me. Please continue with this pic.

You will know what to caption the pic with. You are very clever.

Send the picture back to Mom and Dad. They do not have a copy (this is the only one) and are waiting on me to send it.

What do you think? Good idea or bad idea? My vote is "good idea".

Take care, Grayson.

Love you Bro',

Damon
